Production Tool & Supply Launches New Website

January 23, 2012-- Rockford, IL -- Production Tool & Supply is excited to announce the launch of their newly revamped website. Officially launched on Monday, Jan. 23, the website features a clean, fresh look and makes navigation much easier for customers. The site also offers new capabilities such as download options, where visitors can view company linecards and access a credit application, which speeds up transaction time.

The next step for Production Tool & Supply's technological advancement includes online purchase capability. While the new site offers a look at the plentiful and diverse lines that Production Tool & Supply carries, it does not currently allow customers to buy online, something the company plans to offer in the near future. Until then, customers can browse through Production Tool & Supply's vast offering of vendors and services and then speak to a company salesperson for personalized, friendly service.
